Jonathan Rosenfeld's Nursing Homes Abuse Blog

Nursing Home Abuse: Janitor Accused Of Sexually Exploiting An Alzheimer's Patient

Posted by Jonathan Rosenfeld on October 28, 2010

I was sickened to see another report of a janitor at the MediLodge Nursing Home (Michigan) who was caught by his co-workers sexually assaulting a patient at the facility. Perhaps the only positive aspect of this episode of nursing home abuse is that the man's co-workers immediately reported the incident to the police.

Presently, the janitor remains in police custody and formal charges will be forthcoming.

Episodes such as this serve as a reminder that we all need to be looking after all nursing home patients--- even those we may never suspect may be victims of abuse. Hopefully, when the dust settles on this investigation, we will learn that the that the timely acts by the nursing home staff protected the safety of other patients at this facility.

Related Nursing Homes Abuse Blog Entries

Bye Bye Criminals

Nursing Home Supervisor Admits To Abusing 100 Residents

Jonathan Rosenfeld represents victims of nursing home abuse and neglect throughout the country. For more information please visit Nursing Homes Abuse Blog (www.nursinghomesabuseblog.com), Bed Sore FAQ (www.bedsorefaq.com) or call Jonathan directly at (888) 424-5757.

Nursing Home Operator And CNA's Named As Defendants In Civil Lawsuit After Sex Abuse Scandal

Sexual Abuse: Nursing Home Injury Laws

Jonathan Rosenfeld represents victims of nursing home abuse and neglect throughout the country. For more information please visit Nursing Homes Abuse Blog (www.nursinghomesabuseblog.com), Bed Sore FAQ (www.bedsorefaq.com) or call Jonathan directly at (888) 424-5757.