Get a Professional Snapshot of Your Facebook Friend Network

There is a new Facebook application out and it looks awfully similar to LinkedIn.

It's called Talent.me.

What Does it Do?

Talent.me is a career networking service on Facebook. Just sign up using your Facebook login and you can access inside professional connections within your social network.

Once you've started using Talent.me, the app will appear in the left bar on your Facebook profile.

Yes, you need a Facebook account to register to use it.

No, the app does not import your Facebook status updates and photos. Talent.me is strictly about professional networking, not social.

Why Use it?

This is the first big application that lets Facebook users actually focus more on their professional connections.

Find out things like:

- Which companies your friends have worked for.
- If any of your friends work at a company where you would like to get a job.

Talent.me will give you a professional snapshot of your entire friend network - and allows you to leverage that network and make it work for your career.

Ready to get started?

Visit Talent.me and see what the app can do for you.
