

New York Divorce and Family Law Blog

Give the Gift of Divorce

Posted on December 17, 2009 by Daniel Clement

Nothing says I hate your spouse better than a gift certificate to consult with a divorce attorney.

Bruce Carton in the Law Blog Watch, reports that one London law firm, Lloyd Platt & Company, is offering a gift voucher that entitles the bearer to a consultation with a divorce lawyer. The consultation touches upon "all the practical options available to them -- divorce being only one of the options."

While this is an ingenious marketing ploy, I can only imagine the fireworks at the family gathering when this gift is eventually opened. At a minimum, it will make for a holiday dinner no one will soon forget.