MEDICAL RECORDS COPYING CHARGES BY STATE

This web page lists the various state statutes that control the amount of money doctors, hospitals, and other health care providers can charge a patient for copies of their medical records, as well as records provided to the patient's attorney or law firm for use in personal injury cases. Note that under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) a covered entity can only charge "reasonable" cost-based fees for providing the medical records to patients. See 45 CFR 164.524(c). Arguably, fees that are not cost-based, even if permitted by a state statute, may be contrary to the HIPAA regulation and therefore preempted by this federal regulation.

If you are aware of additional statutes which should be posted on this web page, please send the following to Tom Lamb:

- a link to the relevant statute in your state; and a concise summary of the costs aspect of that statute.
- NOTE: If your state's statute is not available online, or you cannot provide us with a precise URL link for the statute, please fax or mail the official text of statute.

Likewise, any clarifications, corrections, or updates regarding the statutes on this web page should be submitted to Tom Lamb.

Please understand that the materials on this web page are for general information purposes only, and must not be regarded as legal advice.
