May 9, 2012 — Peter J. Gregory has joined the Board of Trustees for Quad A for Kids. The group strives to take kids "Off the Streets and on to Life" by providing programs for Rochester's urban youth outside the normal school hours in a safe environment with caring adults. The model program, rated the best in the city, is replicated in three Rochester elementary schools.

In the program, academics are linked to every youth development activity, families are engaged, and clear goals are set for student attendance, behavior, and academics. The Citywide Programs offer children the opportunity to participate in a variety of social activities that promote teamwork, sportsmanship and academics throughout the entire year.

The non-profit group, based out of the Rochester Area Community Foundation, is a United Way beneficiary and includes partners such as Foodlink, The Girl Scouts of Western New York, and the YMCA of Greater Rochester.

Gregory is an associate attorney in the litigation group where he represents clients in a broad range of civil litigation matters including personal injury law, collections, and commercial and business litigation.
