Clients Can Fire Their Attorney At Any Time And Clients Have The Last Word On Settlements

Did you know… clients in New York can fire their attorney at any time and for any reason. Also clients have the ultimate authority to settle their case. Oftentimes clients contact us after they have had another attorney/law firm representing them for over 2 years on a personal injury matter with no settlement offers on the table or trial date in sight. They are tired of unreturned phone calls and waiting. Or they feel confused that their case is reassigned to a different attorney at the firm. The problem is many law firms actually take in too many cases and only have a few attorneys on staff that are experienced enough to handle them. I know, since I have worked at other firms and have unfortunately witnessed this first hand.* At the Underwood Law Firm, we limit the amount of cases we take in to better serve our clients more quickly and efficiently. We were built from the ground up to serve and represent our clients in a timely matter. I will personally handle all the components of your case until the end.

*Prior to opening the Underwood Law Firm, Mike Underwood had worked at well established personal injury law firms in Syracuse, New York.
