1 TO DEFENDANTS AND THEIR COUNSEL OF RECORD:

2 PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on March 25, 2008, or as soon thereafter as the matter may 3 be heard, at the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, 450 Golden 4 Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, Plaintiff Electronic Frontier Foundation (“EFF”) will, and 5 hereby does, move for an order granting preliminary injunctive relief.

7 Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65, EFF seeks to enjoin the Office of the 8 Director of National Intelligence (“ODNI”) and the Department of Justice (“DOJ”) from impeding
9 EFF’s efforts to expeditiously obtain agency records concerning a lobbying campaign to amend 10 federal surveillance law, particularly to insulate telecommunications carriers from liability for their 11 cooperation in widespread and illegal government surveillance. EFF respectfully asks that this 12 Court issue an order requiring Defendants to expedite the processing of EFF’s Freedom of 13 Information Act requests submitted to the agencies, and to complete their processing within 10
14 days of the Court’s order. This motion is based on this notice of motion, the memorandum of 15 points and authorities in support of this motion, the declaration of Marcia Hofmann and attached
16 exhibits in support of this motion, and all papers and records on file with the Clerk or which may 17 be submitted prior to or at the time of the hearing, and any further evidence which may be offered.
18

20 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

21 I. INTRODUCTION

22 This is an action under the Freedom of Information Act (“FOIA”), 5 U.S.C. § 552, seeking 23 the expedited processing and release of records held by Defendants ODNI and DOJ concerning 24 efforts of the agencies and telecommunications industry to push for changes to federal surveillance 25 law, especially to ensure that telecommunications carriers are not held accountable for their 26 participation in the government’s unlawful surveillance of millions of Americans.
27

28 Defendants ODNI and DOJ acknowledge that the requested information qualifies for

1 expedited processing, and each agency has purported to grant EFF's requests for such treatment.
2 Nonetheless, in violation of the FOIA and Defendants' own regulations, ODNI and DOJ have 3 failed to process EFF's requests even within the statutory time frame (20 business days) for a 4 standard request that is not entitled to expedited treatment. Defendants' failure to process the 5 requests — or to even identify a date by which it expects to complete processing — violates the 6 law.

8 An order compelling the timely processing and production of these documents is critical 9 because the information requested is directly relevant to understanding the Defendants' roles in 10 lobbying on behalf of telecommunications providers for legislation designed to force the dismissal
11 of lawsuits against the companies, more than 40 of which are currently pending before this Court.
12 As Defendants forestall compliance with EFF's lawful FOIA requests, Congress continues to 13 consider highly controversial legislation demanded by the President and the Director of National 14 Intelligence. Because both EFF's rights and Defendants' obligations are highly time-sensitive, EFF 15 respectfully requests entry of an order compelling Defendants ODNI and DOJ to process and 16 disclose the requested records immediately.

18 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

19 A. The Administration's Campaign to Shield Telecommunications Carriers 20 From Liability for Their Role in Unlawful Surveillance Activity 21

22 The agency activities at the heart of this case concern ODNI and DOJ's lobbying efforts to 23 ensure telecommunications providers are not held responsible for their participation in a massive, 24 well-documented surveillance program through which the United States government has 25 unlawfully gathered information about millions of Americans. The first news of this surveillance 26 program reached the public on December 15, 2005, when the New York Times reported:
27

28 Months after the Sept. 11 attacks, President Bush secretly authorized the National Security Agency to eavesdrop on Americans and others inside the United States to

1 search for evidence of terrorist activity without the court-approved warrants
2 ordinarily required for domestic spying, according to government officials.

3 Under a presidential order signed in 2002, the intelligence agency has monitored
4 the international telephone calls and international e-mail messages of hundreds,
5 perhaps thousands, of people inside the United States without warrants over the 6 past three years in an effort to track possible “dirty numbers” linked to Al Qaeda, 7 the officials said.

8 James Risen and Eric Lichtblau, Bush Lets U.S. Spy on Callers Without Courts, N.Y. TIMES, Dec.
9 16, 2005, available at <http://www.nytimes.com/2005/12/16/politics/16program.html> (subscription
10 required) (attached to the Declaration of Marcia Hofmann (hereafter “Hofmann Decl.”) as Ex. A).¹

11 The following day, President Bush confirmed in a radio address that he had authorized a 12 surveillance program to intercept international communications in which one participant was 13 suspected of having a connection to the terrorist organization al-Qaeda. President’s Radio Address, 14 Dec. 17, 2005, <http://www.whitehouse.gov/news/releases/2005/12/20051217.html> (Hofmann Decl.
15 Ex. B).

16 Shortly thereafter, the New York Times reported that the NSA’s surveillance activity was far 17 more extensive than President Bush had admitted. According to the Times:

18 ¹ While newspaper accounts are hearsay, it is well established that this Court has the discretion to 19 consider hearsay or otherwise inadmissible evidence for purposes of deciding whether to issue a 20 preliminary injunction. Republic of the Philippines v. Marcos, 862 F.2d 1355, 1363 (9th Cir. 1988)
21 (en banc) (allowing hearsay evidence); accord Flynt Distrib. Co. v. Harvey, 734 F.2d 1389, 1394
22 (9th Cir. 1984) (“The urgency of obtaining a preliminary injunction necessitates a prompt 23 determination and makes it difficult to obtain affidavits from persons who would be competent to 24 testify at trial. The trial court may give even inadmissible evidence some weight, when to do so 25 serves the purpose of preventing irreparable harm before trial.”); Rosen Entm’t Sts. LP v. Eiger 26 Vision, 343 F. Supp. 2d 908, 912 (C.D. Cal. 2004) (“District courts have discretion to consider 27 otherwise inadmissible evidence in ruling on the merits of an application for a preliminary 28 injunction.”); New.Net, Inc. v. Lavasoft, 356 F Supp. 2d 1071, 1076 n.3 (C.D. Cal. 2003) (“[T]he Court may, in its discretion, accept hearsay for purposes of deciding whether to issue the preliminary injunction.”) “District courts must exercise their discretion in weighing all the attendant factors, including the need for expedition, to assess whether, and to what extent, affidavits or other hearsay materials are appropriate given the character and objectives of the injunctive proceeding.” Kos Pharm., Inc. v. Andrx Corp., 369 F.3d 700, 719 (3d Cir. 2004)
(quoting Asseo v. An Am. Grain Co., 805 F.2d 23, 26 (1st Cir. 1986) (quotation marks omitted))
(emphasis added).

1 The National Security Agency has traced and analyzed large volumes of telephone
2 and Internet communications flowing into and out of the United States as part of the 3 eavesdropping program that President Bush approved after the Sept. 11, 2001, 4 attacks to hunt for evidence of terrorist activity, according to current and former 5 government officials.

6 The volume of information harvested from telecommunication data and voice
7 networks, without court-approved warrants, is much larger than the White House
8 has acknowledged, the officials said. It was collected by tapping directly into some 9 of the American telecommunication system's main arteries, they said.

10 As part of the program approved by President Bush for domestic surveillance
11 without warrants, the N.S.A. has gained the cooperation of American 12 telecommunications companies to obtain backdoor access to streams of domestic 13 and international communications, the officials said.

14 Eric Lichtblau, Spy Agency Mined Vast Data Trove, Officials Report, N.Y. TIMES, Dec. 24, 2005, 15 available at <http://www.nytimes.com/2005/12/24/politics/24spy.html> (Hofmann Decl. Ex. C).

16 The press continued to reveal the broad scope of the government's surveillance operation.
17 On February 6, 2006, for instance, USA Today reported, "[t]he National Security Agency has 18 secured the cooperation of large telecommunications companies, including AT&T, MCI and 19 Sprint, in its efforts to eavesdrop without warrants on international calls by suspected terrorists, 20 according to seven telecommunications executives." Leslie Cauley and John Diamond, Telecoms
21 Let NSA Spy on Calls, USA TODAY, Feb. 6, 2006, available at 22 http://www.usatoday.com/news/washington/2006-02-05-nsa-telecoms_x.htm (Hofmann Decl. Ex.
23 D).

24 Since the NSA's massive and illegal warrantless surveillance program was first revealed, 25 approximately 41 lawsuits have been filed throughout the United States seeking to hold the 26 government and cooperating telecommunications carriers responsible for violating the law and the 27 privacy of countless citizens and customers. An additional seven suits have arisen from attempts by 28 state public utility commissioners and attorneys general to seek information from telecommunications carriers about their involvement in warrantless surveillance activities. Nearly all of these lawsuits have been consolidated and are currently pending here in the United States

1 District Court for the Northern District of California. In re NSA Telecommunications Records
2 Litigation (MDL Docket No. 06-1791 VRW).²

3 On August 5, 2007, President Bush signed into law the Protect America Act of 2007, which 4 expanded the government's authority to intercept communications of Americans without warrants
5 through the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act ("FISA"). Pub. L. No. 110-55, 121 Stat. 552.
6 Among other things, the law contained provisions designed to protect telecommunications
7 companies from future legal liability for their role in certain government surveillance activity.

9 In an article published the same day the Protect America Act became law, the New York
10 Times reported:

11 [The Protect American Act] gave the administration greater power to force 12 telecommunications companies to cooperate with such spying operations. The 13 companies can now be compelled to cooperate by orders from the attorney general and the director of national intelligence.

14 Democratic Congressional aides said Sunday that some telecommunications
15 company officials had told Congressional leaders that they were unhappy with that 16 provision in the bill and might challenge the new law in court. The aides said the telecommunications companies had told lawmakers that they would rather have a court-approved warrant ordering them to comply.

17 In fact, pressure from the telecommunications companies on the Bush 18 administration has apparently played a major hidden role in the political battle over the surveillance issue over the past few months.

21 The Protect America Act included a provision stating that the law would expire in February 22 2008 without further congressional action. President Bush indicated that the Administration would 23 push for more extensive, and likely retroactive, legal immunity for telecommunications companies:
24

25 When Congress returns in September the Intelligence committees and leaders in 26 both parties will need to complete work on the comprehensive reforms requested by 27 Director [of National Intelligence Mike] McConnell, including the important issue of providing meaningful liability protection to those who are alleged to have assisted our Nation following the attacks of September 11, 2001.

3 (Hofmann Decl. Ex. F). In an August 22, 2007 interview discussing the government's warrantless
4 surveillance activities, Director McConnell stated:

6 [U]nder the president's program, the terrorist surveillance program, the private 7 sector had assisted us. Because if you're going to get access you've got to have a 8 partner and they were being sued. Now if you play out the suits at the value 9 they're claimed, it would bankrupt these companies. So my position was that we 10 have to provide liability protection to these private sector entities.

12 telecommunications companies, working closely with the White House, have mounted a secretive

14 against them for assisting the U.S. intelligence community's warrantless surveillance programs."

17 As of the filing of this motion, Congress is still considering whether to give 18 telecommunications carriers legal immunity for their cooperation in the government's warrantless 19 surveillance program. The House of Representatives has passed the RESTORE Act of 2007, which 20 would not protect telecommunications companies from civil liability for their role in the 21 surveillance operation. H.R. 3773 (as passed by House). On February 12, 2008, however, the 22 Senate passed its own version of legislation to amend FISA, which purports to require dismissal of 23 any state or federal lawsuit against a carrier for facilitating government surveillance if the Attorney
24 General certifies to the court that the company was assisting in certain intelligence activity 25 authorized by the President. H.R. 3773, FISA Amendments Act of 2008 (engrossed amendment as 26 agreed to by Senate).

1 Congress allowed the Protect America Act to expire on February 16, 2008 without reaching 2 an agreement to extend the controversial law. See generally Tim Starks, House Allows FISA Law to

6 legislation. Just yesterday, President Bush told reporters that amending FISA is a “very urgent 7 priority,” and that subjecting telecommunications companies to liability for their participation in 8 past government surveillance would be “unfair.” Press Conference of the President, Feb. 28, 2008,

12 B. EFF’s Freedom of Information Act Requests For Records About the Telecom
13 Lobbying Campaign and Requests for Expedited Processing

14 In letters sent by facsimile on December 21, 2007, to ODNI and the DOJ Office of the 15 Attorney General, Office of Legislative Affairs, Office of Legal Policy, Office of Legal Counsel,
16 and National Security Division, EFF requested under the FOIA all records from September 1, 2007
17 to December 21, 2007 concerning “briefings, discussions, or other exchanges” that agency officials

18 have had with 1) members of the Senate or House of Representatives and 2) 19 representatives or agents of telecommunications companies concerning 20 amendments to FISA, including any discussion of immunizing
21 telecommunications companies or holding them otherwise unaccountable for their 22 role in government surveillance activities. This request includes, but is not limited to, all email, appointment calendars, telephone message slips, or other records indicating that such briefings, discussions, or other exchanges took place.³

23 ³ Each request contained the following footnote:

24 The phrase “representatives or agents of telecommunications companies” is 25 intended to include lobbyists and lawyers acting on behalf of such companies.
26 According to Newsweek, these individuals may include, but are not limited to, 27 “powerhouse Republican lobbyists Charlie Black and Wayne Berman (who 28 represent AT&T and Verizon, respectively), former GOP senator and U.S. ambassador to Germany Dan Coats (a lawyer at King & Spaulding who is representing Sprint), former Democratic Party strategist and one-time assistant secretary of State Tom Donilon (who represents Verizon), former deputy attorney

14 In each of its December 21 letters, EFF formally requested that the processing of these 15 requests be expedited because they seek the disclosure of information about which there is “[a]n 16 urgency to inform the public about an actual or alleged [f]ederal [g]overnment activity,” and were 17 “made by a person primarily engaged in disseminating information,” as provided in 5 U.S.C. §

19 Notwithstanding ODNI and DOJ's purported decisions to process EFF's December 21
20 FOIA requests in an expedited fashion, to date, neither agency has completed the processing of 21 EFF's requests, nor informed EFF of an anticipated date for the completion of the processing of the 22 requests. (Hofmann Decl. ¶ 19.) Furthermore, both ODNI and DOJ have exceeded the generally
23 applicable 20-day statutory deadline for processing a standard, non-expedited FOIA request. See 5
24 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(A).

25
26 EFF initiated this lawsuit on February 20, 2008. On February 21, 27 and 28, 2008, EFF
27 contacted counsel for Defendants to explore the possibility of negotiating a processing schedule for 28

1 EFF's FOIA requests to eliminate the need for further action in this case. (Hofmann Decl. ¶ 23.)
2 EFF explained that it planned to seek preliminary injunctive relief if the parties could not agree
3 upon a mutually acceptable date by which to process EFF's requests. (Id.) However, Defendants
4 have been unwilling to agree to process the requests by a specific date. (Id.)

6 III. ARGUMENT

7 The issue raised in this motion is clear-cut and discrete. Although ODNI and DOJ have 8 acknowledged EFF's legal entitlement to expedited processing of its December 21, 2007 FOIA
9 requests, the agencies have failed to comply not only with the FOIA's provisions for expedited 10 processing, but also the statute's mandated time frame of 20 working days for responding to 11 standard FOIA requests. The agencies' failure to process the requests is a continuing impediment 12 to EFF's — and the public's — ability to timely examine the scope of the lobbying campaign to 13 secure legal immunity for telecommunications carriers for their cooperation with the government's 14 warrantless surveillance operations. The agencies' actions are unlawful and must be enjoined.
15

16 A. The Court has Jurisdiction to Grant the Requested Relief

17 The Court's jurisdiction to consider this matter and grant appropriate relief is clear. The 18 FOIA provides, in pertinent part:
19

20 Agency action to deny or affirm denial of a request for expedited processing . . .
21 shall be subject to judicial review under paragraph (4), except that the judicial 22 review shall be based on the record before the agency at the time of the 23 determination.

24 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(iii). The referenced judicial review provision states, in pertinent part:

25 On complaint, the district court of the United States in the district in which the 26 complainant resides, or has his principal place of business . . . has jurisdiction to 27 enjoin the agency from withholding agency records and to order the production of 28 any agency records improperly withheld from the complainant. In such a case the court shall determine the matter de novo

1 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(B).⁴ See Al-Fayed v. CIA, 254 F.3d 300, 304 (D.C. Cir. 2001).

2 Here, notwithstanding ODNI and DOJ's decisions to "expedite" EFF's requests, the 3 agencies have failed to respond within the generally applicable 20-working-day time limit
4 established by 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(A). EFF's claim is ripe for adjudication because EFF has 5 exhausted all applicable administrative remedies. The FOIA provides:

6 [a]ny person making a request to any agency for records . . . shall be deemed to 7 have exhausted his administrative remedies with respect to such request if the 8 agency fails to comply with the applicable time limit provisions of this paragraph.

9 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(C). See also Oglesby v. Dep't of the Army, 920 F.2d 57, 62 (D.C. Cir. 1990)
10 ("If the agency has not responded within the statutory time limits, then . . . the requester may bring 11 suit."). As the FOIA provides, in reviewing ODNI and DOJ's actions, "the court shall determine 12 the matter de novo." 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(B); see also Al-Fayed, 254 F.3d at 308 ("[A] district 13 court must review de novo an agency's denial of a request for expedition under FOIA.").

14 B. EFF is Entitled to Entry of an Order for Preliminary Injunction

15 A preliminary injunction is a device for "preventing the irreparable loss of rights before 16 judgment." Sierra On-Line, Inc. v. Phoenix Software, Inc., 739 F.2d 1415, 1422 (9th Cir. 1984)
17 (citation omitted). The Court may review this motion under one of two tests:

18 The "traditional" test requires the movant to: (1) establish a strong likelihood of 19 success on the merits; (2) show the possibility of irreparable injury to the plaintiff 20 if the preliminary relief is not granted; (3) show a balance of hardships favoring 21 the movant; and (4) show that granting the injunction favors the public interest.
22 The "alternative" test requires that the movant demonstrate either a combination 23 of probable success on the merits and the possibility of irreparable injury, or that 24 serious questions are raised and the balance of hardships tips sharply in his favor.
25 Under either test, plaintiff must demonstrate that there exists a significant threat 26 of irreparable injury.

27 Elec. Frontier Foundation v. Office of the Director of National Intelligence, No. 07-5278 SI, 2007

28 ⁴ EFF's principal place of business is in San Francisco, California. (Hofmann Decl. ¶ 2.) This Court also has jurisdiction of this case under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 ("The district courts shall have original jurisdiction over all civil actions arising under the Constitution, laws, or treaties of the United States.").

1 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89585, at * 8 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 27, 2007) (citations omitted). Furthermore, in 2 deciding whether to grant the injunction, “the court must balance the equities between the parties
3 and give due regard to the public interest.” Idaho Watersheds Project v. Hahn, 307 F.3d 815, 833
4 (9th Cir. 2002).

5 In determining whether a preliminary injunction is proper, “[t]he district court is not
6 required to make any binding findings of fact; it need only find probabilities that the necessary
7 facts can be proved.” Id. at 1423. Moreover, “the greater the relative hardship to the moving
8 party, the less probably of success must be shown.” Sun Microsystems, Inc. v. Microsoft Corp., 9 188 F.3d 1115, 1119 (9th Cir. 1999), quoting Nat’l Ctr. For Immigrants Rights v. INS, 743 F.2d
10 1365, 1369 (9th Cir. 1984).

Though preliminary injunction is not the norm in FOIA cases, this Court has concluded that such relief is appropriate where a plaintiff establishes that its requests are entitled to expedited processing under the statute, and the government fails to process them in a timely manner.⁵ Elec.
Frontier Foundation, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89585, *11; Gerstein v. CIA, No. C-06-4643 MMC, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89883, at 12-13 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 29, 2006) (“Gerstein I”). The preliminary injunction factors in this case firmly establish EFF’s entitlement to injunctive relief.

1. EFF is Likely to Prevail on the Merits of Its Claim

Given EFF’s uncontested entitlement to the expedited processing of its requests under the explicit terms of the FOIA, EFF’s likelihood of prevailing on the merits could not be stronger.
Because ODNI and DOJ have already determined that EFF’s FOIA requests are entitled to expediting processing, the only question before the court is whether the Defendants are “actually

1 processing the requests ‘as soon as practicable.’” Id. at *12. EFF is entitled to prevail on this issue,
2 since the agencies have conceded that EFF’s requests are entitled to expedited processing, and yet
3 have violated the terms of the FOIA and agency regulations by failing to satisfy the processing
4 time for even a standard, non-expedited request. As this Court has found, “an agency’s failure to 5 comply with the FOIA’s time limits is, by itself, a violation of the FOIA, and is an improper
6 withholding of the requested documents.” Gilmore v. Dep’t of Energy, 33 F. Supp. 2d 1184, 1187
7 (N.D. Cal. 1998).

9 The FOIA clearly establishes the circumstances in which an agency must process a request 10 in an expedited manner. According to the statute, “[e]ach agency shall promulgate regulations . . .
11 providing for expedited processing of requests for records . . . in cases in which the person 12 requesting the records demonstrates a compelling need and . . . in other cases determined by the 13 agency.” 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(i). “Compelling need” includes, “with respect to a request made 14 by a person primarily engaged in disseminating information, urgency to inform the public 15 concerning actual or alleged Federal Government activity.” 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(v).

17 Pursuant to this statutory directive, ODNI and DOJ have both issued regulations
18 establishing grounds for expedited processing, only one of which is relevant here. Both agencies’
19 regulations provide that requests “will be taken out of order and given expedited [processing]
20 treatment whenever it is determined that they involve . . . [a]n urgency to inform the public about 21 an actual or alleged [f]ederal [g]overnment activity, if made by a person primarily engaged in 22 disseminating information.” 32 C.F.R. § 1700.12(c)(2) & 28 C.F.R. § 16.5(d)(1). If the agencies
23 grant expedited treatment, they are obligated to process the request “as soon as practicable.” 5

26 ⁵ As one judge has noted, “where a plaintiff contends in good faith that an agency has failed to 27 expedite processing of a FOIA request in accordance with statute or regulation . . . the availability 28 of an order that effectively is an injunction, preliminary or otherwise, should not be foreclosed.”
Elec. Frontier Foundation v. Dep’t of Justice, No. 07-0656 (JDB), slip op. at 4 (D.D.C. June 15, 2007) (Hofmann Decl. Ex. T).

1 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(iii); 32 C.F.R. § 1700.12(b) & 28 C.F.R. §16.5(d)(4). As one court has 2 noted, the statute’s “phrase ‘as soon as practicable,’ in the context of a provision of FOIA allowing 3 for expedited processing, cannot be interpreted to impose a lower burden on the agency than would 4 otherwise exist.” Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. v. Dep’t of Justice, 416 F. Supp. 2d 24, 39 (D.D.C. 2006)
5 (hereafter “Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. I”) (emphasis in original).

7 As such, an agency is presumed to have violated the “expedited processing” provisions of 8 the FOIA when it fails to comply with the generally applicable 20-working-day deadline imposed 9 by the FOIA for processing a non-expedited request. Elec. Frontier Foundation, 2007 U.S. Dist.
10 LEXIS 89585 at *13 (citing id.). Once the 20-working-day deadline has passed, the agency bears
11 the burden of proving that it is in fact processing the expedited request “as soon as practicable.”
12 Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. 2d 24, 39 at n.8. While the agency may rebut the 13 presumption that it failed to process a request “as soon as practicable,” Elec. Frontier Foundation, 14 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89585 at *13, neither ODNI nor DOJ has even attempted to make that 15 showing.
16

17 Here, EFF requested expedited processing of its FOIA requests because they concern a 18 lobbying campaign to amend federal surveillance law, which is a matter about which there is “an 19 urgency to inform the public about actual or alleged federal government activity.” (Hofmann Decl.
20 Exs. K-N.) Furthermore, the requests were made on behalf of EFF, which is a requester “primarily 21 engaged in disseminating information.” (Id.) Defendants ODNI and DOJ determined that EFF’s 22 requests were indeed entitled to expedited processing under this standard. (Hofmann Decl. Exs. O, 23 P, Q & S). There is no indication in the record, however, that ODNI and DOJ have done anything 24 other than pay lip service to EFF’s entitlement to expedition. As this Court has noted, “in the 25 absence of relevant evidence as to the reasons for their delay in processing [a plaintiff’s FOIA]
26 requests, [the government] ha[s] no likelihood of success on the merits.” Gerstein I, 2006 U.S.
27
28

1 Dist. LEXIS 89883 at *14 (emphasis added). See also Gilmore, 33 F. Supp. 2d at 1188 (“unless an
2 agency makes a timely determination that documents should or should not be disclosed . . . there is
3 no compliance with the FOIA.”)

4 Although it is undisputed that all of EFF’s requests are legally entitled to expedited
5 treatment, ODNI and DOJ have failed to comply with the 20-day deadline set by the FOIA and 6 their own regulations for issuing a determination on even a non-expedited FOIA request. The 7 agencies have not (and cannot) offer adequate justification for the delay. For these reasons, EFF is 8 entitled to the immediate processing and release of the requested records, and asks that the Court
9 issue an order to secure this right.
10

11 2. EFF Will Suffer Irreparable Injury in the Absence of the Requested 12 Injunctive Relief

13 Unless ODNI and DOJ’s unlawful failure to comply with their obligations to expedite the 14 processing of EFF’s FOIA requests is immediately enjoined, EFF will suffer irreparable harm. The 15 very nature of the right that EFF seeks to vindicate in this action — expedited processing —
16 depends upon timeliness, because “stale information is of little value.” Payne Enterprises, Inc. v.
17 United States, 837 F.2d 486, 494 (D.C. Cir. 1988); Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. 2d at 40-
18 41; See also August v. FBI, 328 F.3d 697, 699 (D.C. Cir. 2003) (“[T]he statutory goals [of FOIA]
19 — efficient, prompt, and full disclosure of information — can be frustrated by agency actions that 20 operate to delay the ultimate resolution of the disclosure request.” (quoting Senate of the 21 Commonwealth of Puerto Rico v. Dep’t of Justice, 823 F.2d 574, 580 (D.C. Cir. 1987) (internal 22 quotation marks and citations omitted) (emphasis in original)). Courts have recognized that the 23 requisite injury is present, and preliminary injunctive relief is appropriate, in cases where expedited
24 FOIA processing is at issue and where time thus is of the essence, because delay “constitutes a 25 cognizable harm.” Gerstein I, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89983 at * 15, quoting Elec. Privacy Info.
26
27
28

1 Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. 2d at 40; see also, e.g., United States v. BNS, Inc., 858 F.2d 456, 465 (9th Cir.
2 1988); Martin-Marietta Corp. v. Bendix Corp., 690 F.2d 558, 568 (6th Cir. 1982). Under the 3 statutory scheme Congress established in the FOIA, it is clear that timing is a critical component of 4 expedited processing, and unless ODNI and DOJ are ordered to process EFF's requests
5 immediately, EFF's right to expedition under the FOIA will be irretrievably lost.

7 In addition to the loss of its clearly established statutory right, any further delay in the 8 processing of EFF's FOIA requests will irreparably harm EFF's ability, and that of the public, to 9 obtain in a timely fashion information vital to the current and ongoing debate surrounding whether 10 Congress should amend FISA, particularly to render telecommunications carriers immune from 11 legal liability for their complicity in the government's warrantless surveillance program. (Hofmann 12 Decl. ¶¶ 20-22.) The Supreme Court has long recognized our democracy's interest in "the 13 uninhibited, robust, and wide-open debate about matters of public importance that secures an 14 informed citizenry." Cornelius v. NAACP Legal Def. & Educ. Fund, 473 U.S. 788, 815 (1985), 15 quoting New York Times Co. v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254, 270 (1964) (internal quotation marks
16 omitted); see also Board of Educ. v. Pico, 457 U.S. 853, 876 (1982) ("[T]he Constitution 17 presupposes the existence of an informed citizenry prepared to participate in governmental 18 affairs.").

20
21 Furthermore, the courts have recognized that providing information for legislative debate is 22 a compelling public interest. This recognized interest clearly would be compromised by further 23 delay in the disclosure EFF seeks. First, the question of whether and how FISA should be 24 modified, and whether telecommunications companies should receive some governmental 25 protection from liability for their cooperation in unlawful government surveillance, has already 26 garnered extraordinary media interest. (See, e.g., Hofmann Decl. Exs. E, G, H & I.) Second, since
27 EFF submitted its FOIA requests to ODNI and DOJ on December 21, the issues about which EFF
28

1 seeks information have become only more vital to the American public. While both the House and 2 Senate have passed bills that would amend FISA, they have not agreed upon a final version of the 3 law. Furthermore, the Protect America Act has lapsed, which only puts more pressure on the 4 government to enact final legislation. In such circumstances, “the public interest is particularly 5 well-served by the timely release of the requested documents.” Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. I, 416 F.
6 Supp. 2d at 42. Moreover, the bill that has been passed by the Senate would provide retroactive
7 protection to telecommunications carriers involved in the government’s warrantless surveillance
8 program, which has placed the decision of whether to extend immunity to the carriers squarely 9 before the House. H.R. 3773, FISA Amendments Act of 2008 (engrossed amendment as agreed to 10 by Senate). This Court and others have determined that the existence of pending legislation related 11 to the subject of a FOIA request weighs in favor of a grant of expedited processing. Elec. Frontier 12 Foundation, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89585 at * 19 (“irreparable harm can exist in FOIA cases such 13 as this because ongoing public and congressional debates about issues of vital national importance
14 cannot be restarted or wound back.”) (quoting Gerstein I, U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89883 at *4 (quotation 15 marks omitted)); Gerstein v. CIA, No. 06-4643 MMC, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89847, at *20 (N.D.
16 Cal. Nov. 29, 2006) (“Gerstein II”) (granting expedited processing where this Court noted that 17 “there is a significant recognized interest in enhancing public debate on potential legislative 18 action”); see also Leadership Conference on Civil Rights v. Gonzales, 404 F. Supp. 2d 246, 260
19 (D.D.C. 2005); ACLU v. Dep’t of Justice, 321 F. Supp. 2d 24, 31 (D.D.C. 2004). EFF and the 20 public’s interest here is particularly compelling, as this Court has already recognized that delay in 21 the context of the current congressional debate over amending FISA is a sufficient showing of 22 likelihood of irreparable injury. Elec. Frontier Foundation, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89585 at *20
23 (“Plaintiff seeks information from defendant specifically so that plaintiff, Congress, and the public
24 many participate in the debate over the pending [FISA] legislation on an informed basis.
25
26
27
28

1 Accordingly, the Court finds that plaintiff has shown the likelihood of irreparable injury”).

2 If there is to be a meaningful public debate on the issue of retroactive protection for 3 telecommunications companies the examination “cannot be based solely upon information that the 4 Administration voluntarily chooses to disseminate.” Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. 2d at 5 41 n.9. Indeed, the public oversight mechanism provided by the FOIA is central to open and 6 democratic debate on critical policy issues such as telecommunications industry’s lobbying
7 campaign and government agencies’ role in it. As the Supreme Court has observed, the Act is “a
8 means for citizens to know what the Government is up to. This phrase should not be dismissed as a 9 convenient formalism. It defines a structural necessity in a real democracy.” Nat’l Archives &
10 Records Admin. v. Favish, 541 U.S. 157, 171-172 (2004) (emphasis added; citation and internal 11 quotation marks omitted). Moreover, “[n]ot only is public awareness a necessity, but so too is 12 timely public awareness.” Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. 2d at 40 (emphasis in original).

15 It is clear that the information EFF seeks must be disclosed expeditiously if it is to 16 contribute to the public debate on amending foreign intelligence surveillance law, particularly on 17 the issue of telecommunications carrier immunity. Because time is of the essence in this matter, 18 EFF will be irreparably harmed unless the Court acts now, “when it [is] still possible to grant 19 effective relief,” and before “all opportunity to grant the requested relief [is] foreclosed.” Local

23
24
25
26 ⁶ As one court has recognized, delay in the processing of FOIA requests “may well result in 27 disclosing the relevant documents after the need for them in the formulation of national . . . policy 28 has been overtaken by events.” Natural Resources Defense Council v. Dep’t of Energy, 191 F.
Supp. 2d 41, 43 (D.D.C. 2002) (“NRDC”) (granting motion for release of documents).

3 3. Injunctive Relief Will Not Burden Others' Interests

4 Defendants ODNI and DOJ cannot be “burdened” by a requirement that they merely 5 comply with the law.⁷ The immediate relief EFF seeks will require nothing more of the government
6 than what federal law already mandates: the expedited processing of EFF’s FOIA requests, which 7 ODNI and DOJ do not dispute are entitled to such treatment. Furthermore, the relief EFF seeks 8 will not burden the interests of other parties who have submitted FOIA requests to ODNI or DOJ in 9 any manner beyond that foreseen by Congress. In providing for expedited processing of qualifying
10 requests, Congress intended that such requests would take precedence over those that do not 11 qualify for such treatment. As such, expedited processing here should not be unduly burdensome
12 for any party. ODNI and the relevant offices within DOJ carry a relatively small FOIA caseload, 13 and handle few, if any, requests that require expedited processing. In fact, the most recently 14 published ODNI statistics on FOIA processing shows that the agency processed 103 requests in 15 fiscal year 2007, only two of which were afforded expedited processing. U.S. Office of the 16 Director of National Intelligence, Freedom of Information Act Report for Fiscal Year 2007, Initial 17 FOIA/PA Access Requests, Compliance with Time Limits/Status of Pending Requests, 18 http://www.odni.gov/Annual_Report_Final.pdf (Hofmann Decl. Ex. U). Similarly, at the time the 19 most recent DOJ statistics on FOIA processing were published, the Office of the Attorney General 20 had 134 requests pending, twelve of which had been granted expedited processing; the Office of 21

24 _____
25 ⁷ As this Court has pointed out, “any complaints about the burdens of complying with the [FOIA]
26 are best addressed to Congress, not the courts.” Elec. Frontier Foundation, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
27 89585 at * 20. It is worth noting that Congress appears unimpressed by the government’s FOIA 28 performance. In recent amendments to the FOIA, Congress opted to impose penalties upon agencies that fail to observe the law’s deadlines and are unable to show that exceptional circumstances justify the non-compliance. OPEN Government Act of 2007, Pub. L. 110-175, §
6(b), 121 Stat. 2524 (2007). This provision of the law shall take effect on December 31, 2008. Id.

1 Legislative Affairs had 42 requests pending, seven of which had been granted expedited
2 processing; the Office of Legal Policy had 32 requests pending, two of which had been granted
3 expedited processing; the Office of Legal Counsel had 11 requests pending, one of which had been 4 granted expedited processing; and the National Security Division had 20 requests pending, none of 5 which had been granted expedited processing. U.S. Department of Justice, Freedom of Information
6 Act Report for Fiscal Year 2007, Compliance With Time Limits/Status of Pending Requests,
7 http://www.usdoj.gov/oip/annual_report/2007/07foiapg7.pdf (Hofmann Decl. Ex. V). None of 8 these statistics suggest that these offices should be unable to do what the law and agency
9 regulations require: process EFF's requests in an expedited manner.
10

11 4. The Public Interest Favors the Requested Relief

12 The final factor in the preliminary injunction analysis also weighs in favor of the issuance 13 of the order EFF seeks in this case. The courts have long recognized that "there is an overriding 14 public interest . . . in the general importance of an agency's faithful adherence to its statutory 15 mandate." Jacksonville Port Authr .v. Adams, 556 F.2d 52, 59 (D.C. Cir. 1977); Elec. Privacy Info.
16 Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. 2d at 42. Similarly, it is "axiomatic that an agency is required to follow its 17 own regulations." Edmonds v. FBI, No. 02-1294, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26578, at *9 n.3 (D.D.C.
18 Dec. 3, 2002) (quoting Cherokee National of Okla. v. Babbitt, 117 F.3d 1489, 1499 (D.C. Cir.
19 1997) (internal quotation marks omitted)). Such adherence is all that EFF seeks here.
20

21 The public interest will also be served by the expedited release of the requested records, 22 which will further the FOIA's core purpose of "shedding light on an agency's performance of its 23 statutory duties." Dep't of Justice v. Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, 489 U.S. 749,
24 773 (1989); Sammis v. Barnhardt, No. C01-3973 BZ, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10321, at 3-4
25 (N.D. Cal. June 6, 2002); Los Angeles Times Communications LLC v. Dep't of Labor, 483 F. Supp.
26 2d 975, 981 (C.D. Cal. 2007). The public interest weighs in favor of a preliminary injunction 27
28

1 because “[t]here is public benefit in the release of information that adds to citizens’ knowledge” of 2 government activities. Ctr. to Prevent Handgun Violence v. Dep’t of the Treasury, 49 F. Supp. 2d
3 3, 5 (D.D.C. 1999). For these reasons, the public interest favors the issuance of an order directing 4 ODNI and DOJ to immediately process and release the requested information.

6 C. The Court Should Order Defendants to Process EFF’s FOIA Requests
7 Immediately

8 It is well established that preliminary injunctive relief is appropriate when, as in this case,
9 an agency has failed to act upon a well-founded request for expedited processing. Elec. Privacy
10 Info. Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. at 35 n.4 (“the court may use its equitable power to prevent agency delay, 11 even when exercise of such authority is preliminary in nature.”) Congress expressly required
12 agencies to make determinations on requests for expedited processing within 10 calendar days, 5
13 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(ii)(I), and provided for immediate judicial review of adverse determinations,
14 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(E)(iii), demonstrating an intent that the courts should act quickly to vindicate
15 the right to expedition. See, e.g., ACLU v. Dep’t of Justice, 321 F. Supp. 2d at 28-29 (complete 16 exhaustion of administrative remedies not a prerequisite to judicial review of agency expedition
17 decisions). Congress’s mandate that disputes concerning expedited processing should be quickly 18 resolved would be frustrated if aggrieved requesters were required to remain idle for 20 days after 19 initiating suit before moving for partial summary judgment. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). As such, claims 20 involving entitlement to expedited processing are appropriately addressed through motions for 21 preliminary relief. Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. I, 416 F. Supp. at 35. See also Aguilera v. FBI, 941 F.
22 Supp. 144, 152-153 (D.D.C. 1996) (granting preliminary injunction FOIA lawsuit for expedited 23 processing); Cleaver v. Kelley, 427 F. Supp. 80, 81-82 (D.D.C. 1976) (same); ACLU v. Dep’t of 24 Defense, 339 F. Supp. 2d 501, 503 (S.D.N.Y. 2004) (same).
25
26

27 The appropriate form of relief is no more than ordering the agencies to follow the 28

1 applicable ODNI and DOJ regulations that dictate the manner in which expedited FOIA requests
2 must be processed. The regulations provide that ODNI and DOJ generally processes requests in the 3 order received. 32 C.F.R. § 1700.12(a) (ODNI), 28 C.F.R. §16.5(a) (DOJ), but that requests “will 4 be taken out of order and given expedited processing treatment whenever it is determined that they 5 [meet the criteria for expedited processing].” 32 C.F.R. § 1700.12(c); 28 C.F.R. §16.5(d). “If a 6 request for expedited treatment is granted, the request shall be given priority and shall be processed
7 as soon as practicable.” 32 C.F.R. § 1700.12(b); 28 C.F.R. §16.5(d). ODNI and DOJ concede that 8 EFF’s requests qualify for expedited treatment, and so there is no dispute that EFF’s requests must 9 be processed as soon as practicable. Therefore, the Court should order ODNI and DOJ to complete 10 the processing of EFF’s FOIA requests immediately.
11

12 In several recent cases, courts have imposed specific processing deadlines on agencies, 13 requiring the prompt delivery of non-exempt records to FOIA requesters. This Court, for example,
14 recently ordered ODNI to process and produce all non-exempt records responsive to two EFF
15 FOIA requests within 13 days of the Court’s order. Elec. Frontier Foundation, 2007 U.S. Dist.
16 LEXIS 8958, at * 23. Likewise, in both Gerstein I & II, the Court ordered the defendant federal 17 agencies to process and produce all non-exempt records responsive to the plaintiff’s FOIA requests 18 within 30 days of the Court’s orders. 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89883, at * 16; 2006 U.S. Dist.
19 LEXIS 89847, at * 27.
20

21 Other courts have imposed similar schedules. In Judicial Watch, Inc. v. Dep’t of Energy, 22 191 F. Supp. 2d 138 (D.D.C. 2002), the District Court for the District of Columbia ordered the 23 Commerce Department and the Transportation Department to process, respectively, 9000 and 6000
24 pages of material and to complete the processing within 60 days; and to provide the requester with 25 an index detailing withholdings pursuant to Vaughn v. Rosen, 484 F.2d 820, 826-8 (D.C. Cir. 1973)
26 within 72 days. Id. at 141. It is worth noting that the FOIA requests at issue in that case were not 27
28

1 claimed to be entitled to expedited processing. Similarly, in NRDC, the same court ordered the 2 Energy Department to process 7500 pages of material; to complete the processing of the “vast 3 majority” of the material within 32 days; to complete all processing within 48 days; and to provide 4 the requester with a Vaughn index within 63 days. 191 F. Supp. 2d at 43-44. Again, the FOIA
5 request in NRDC, unlike the requests at issue here, had not been granted expedited treatment.

7 In ACLU v. Dep’t of Defense, a case involving an expedited request, the District Court for 8 the Southern District of New York ordered a variety of agencies to “produce or identify all 9 responsive documents,” and to provide the requesters with a Vaughn index, within 30 days. 339 F.
10 Supp. 2d at 505. Furthermore, in Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr. v. Dep’t of Justice, the court ordered the 11 FBI to “complete the processing of 1500 pages every 15 calendar days, and provide the plaintiff all 12 responsive non-exempt pages contained therein, until processing is complete,” after the agency had 13 granted a request for expedited processing but failed to produce any responsive records. Civ. No.
14 05-845, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 40318, at 5-6 (D.D.C. Nov. 16, 2005) (“Elec. Privacy Info. Ctr.
15 v. Dep’t of Justice II”). Most recently, in a case involving a request submitted by EFF, the court
16 ordered the FBI to process 2500 pages every 30 days where the Bureau conceded that EFF was 17 entitled to expedited processing of a request, but failed to process the responsive documents
18 quickly. Elec. Frontier Foundation v. Dep’t of Justice, No. 07-0656 (JDB) (Hofmann Decl. Ex. T 19 at 5).
20
21

22 Recognizing the extraordinary public interest in the records at issue here, and in order to 23 facilitate the informed participation of EFF, and the American people, in the current and ongoing 24 debate over whether FISA should be amended and telecommunications companies should be held
25 unaccountable for their role in the government’s unlawful surveillance operations, EFF respectfully
26 requests the Court to direct Defendants ODNI and DOJ to complete the processing of EFF’s
27
28

1 requests and produce or identify all responsive records within 10 days of the issuance of its order.⁸

3 IV. CONCLUSION

4 For the foregoing reasons, EFF's motion for a preliminary injunction should be granted.

27 ⁸ Judicial resolution of the expedited processing issue would not resolve all issues raised in the 28 complaint. Once the question of processing time is resolved, the Court would retain jurisdiction to review the completeness and propriety of ODNI's substantive determination of EFF's FOIA requests. See Open America v. Watergate Special Prosecution Force, 547 F. 2d 605 (D.C. Cir.
1976).
