Further Observations From Campaign 2016

Robert L. Ehrlich

With the first votes having been cast, former Governor Ehrlich shares his candid observations and predictions about the Democratic and Republican candidates' campaigns.... More »

A Comprehensive Energy Bill

Michael A. Andrews

There is a chance, in spite of the gridlock and partisanship on Capitol Hill, that this Congress, in an election year, may for the first time in over a decade pass a bipartisan, comprehensive energy bill. But as Yogi Berra once said, "It ain't over till it's over." More »

A Tax Bill in 2016

Michael A. Andrews

Will Rogers once said, "The only difference between death and taxes is that death doesn't get worse every time Congress meets." More »

Outlook for Patent Reform in 2016

Lloyd N. Hand, William Clarkson

With the final session of the 114th Congress under way, the likelihood of

Congress taking up and passing comprehensive patent litigation reform legislation becomes more and more remote. More »

Dodd-Frank Revisited

J.C. Boggs

At the founding of our nation, Senators and Representatives drafted legislation with a quill pen. Not surprising, the bills introduced and considered in Congress were fairly succinct. More »

Impact of the 2016 Elections on Government Investigations

Daniel F. Donovan, Eleanor J. Hill

The exercise of investigative and prosecutorial authority in our system is intended to be apolitical and insulated from political pressure, but reality has not always mirrored that ideal. More »

What happens to Obamacare in 2017?

George C. Crawford, Allison F. Kassir

Like many things, the answer to that question depends on the distribution of power after the November elections. More »
