Being duly sworn, I make these statements under penalties of perjury:

3. The circumstances of the first set of charges are as follows: in 1994, I was arrested in the City of Somewhere. I had been working all day as a painter. I refused to take a breathalyzer test and was charged with driving while intoxicated and three traffic violations. At arraignment I pled not guilty and at trial, the Honorable Judge, after reviewing the case, acquitted two of the traffic charges. I was convicted of one traffic offense and given a one-year conditional discharge for a DWAI. My driver's license was suspended and I paid all fines.

I refused the breathalyzer test but completed all roadside tests despite inclement weather. I was charged with a DWI and two traffic violations. I pled not guilty and at trial, the traffic charges were dismissed. I was given a fine for a first offense DWI and required to complete alcohol-related courses, with which I complied completely.
5. These are two isolated incidents in an otherwise successful career.
