DIVORCE FINANCIAL PLANNERS

Financial disputes and problems often lead couples to separate and/or divorce. The financial problems do not end with the split. In fact, they may increase when the same resources now try to operate two households.

Fortunately, there are Certified Divorce Financial Planners who can assist couples in creating a plan of action to work on division of assets, payment of debts and creation of an overall wealth preservation plan. This is one instance in which the parties should work together.

A financial planner is a part of all Collaborative Divorce teams but can be used independently by couples or individuals.
