

Cannabis Distributions under Color of Law is a 50 page monograph telling you what you need to know to start a legal medical cannabis delivery service in California. It details the seven steps necessary to get going right away. It also covers delivery service operations, status of primary care givers, California and federal cannabis law, other cannabis business models, and cannabis investing opportunities. A county-by-county listing of medical cannabis guidelines is included.

Cannabis Distribution under Color of Law comes free with a subscription to Cannabis Commerce Reporter, a monthly law and commerce reporter focused on business opportunities in the fast growing medical cannabis industry.

Supplemental reports and monographs, including monograph no. 2, addressing the specifics of growing in one or more Northern California counties, are included in the subscription.

Doug Slain is the editor of Cannabis Commerce Reporter and publisher of Cannabis Law & Practice, LLC. Doug received a M.A. in history from the University of Chicago and a J.D. from Stanford Law School. He now writes and teaches in the fields of a) exempt offerings and real estate; and, b) cannabis law and commerce. He has two children and lives in Mill Valley.

Annual subscription to Cannabis Commerce Reporter: $120

Charter subscriber introductory rate: $95