The Colonel or The Bell?

September 26, 2011 by Steve Baird

Which brand do you believe is better equipped to enjoy the benefits of using a non-verbal logo?

In other words, which brand can more easily shed the words from the visual identity, in the hopes of joining the ranks of these likely famous non-verbal logos and brand signals?

My answer below the jump.

I happened to capture this roadside signage the other day in Phoenix, Arizona, a couple of miles from another location having the older dual-brand signage shown above:

Capella Tower | Suite 3500 | 225 South Sixth Street | Minneapolis, MN 55402 Main: (612) 604-6400 | Fax: (612) 604-6800 | www.winthrop.com | A Professional Association

So, what attributes do you believe are most important for a brand to be able to go wordless?
