KEY FACTS OF REAL ESTATE ACQUISITIONS UNDER LATVIAN LAW

I. STANDARD FORMS OF AGREEMENT

- A. Offer to Purchase sets forth Buyer's offer of price and date for closing. Seller may accept or reject.
- B. The purchase contract sets forth the terms of purchase and sale, including other things - participants in the transaction, price, allocation of costs of the transaction, settlement procedure, date for closing, encumbrance, and default provisions, and transfer of ownership.

II. BROKERS

- A. Buyers and sellers are not required to use services of real estate brokers; however, parties may use such services. Broker services may be provided only by such individual person who has been included in the Register of Real Estate Agents. Currently the general commission fee in the market does not exceed 5% (depending on the value of the transaction).
- B. Usually, the seller pays the broker's commission, but parties may agree otherwise.

III. BUYERS INSPECTION

The seller shall be liable to the buyer that the real estate has no hidden defects, and it possesses all the good qualities which are warranted or presumed. Defects which the buyer should have discovered before buying the real estate cannot be claimed, thus inspection of the real estate is advisable.

A. Residential property:

Parties usually prepare and sign a deed of delivery and acceptance so confirming the condition of the real estate at the time of its acceptance.

B. Commercial property:

Before buying the property, the buyer will normally conduct due diligence on the real estate. Also, parties usually prepare and sign a deed of delivery and acceptance.

IV. TYPES OF REAL ESTATE

A. Types of real estates are:

1. Land estate

Consists of one or several land plots.

2. Land and building estate

Consists of one or several land plots and one or several buildings or structures located on the land plot (plots).

3. Building estate

Consists of one or several buildings or structures. In case of a building estate, the land plot, on which the respective buildings or structures are located, is owned by another person, and does not belong to the owner of the building estate (please see Section C. Divided estate, in this paragraph).

4. Residential estate

Consists of

- a an individual property (apartment, nonresidential premises, or artist's workshop in a residential house) in a residential building; and
- b the relevant undivided share of the joint property (external enclosing structures, internal load bearing constructions and intermediate coverings of the residential house, premises for common use, engineering communication systems, devices servicing the residential building and other indivisible elements functionally associated with the exploitation of the residential building, as well as the auxiliary buildings and structures belonging to the residential building). The joint property also includes the land plot, on which the respective residential building is located, unless it is owned by another person (please see Section C. Divided estate, in this paragraph).

B. Undivided share of the real estate

It is possible to acquire not the entire real estate, but an undivided share of the real estate, i.e., to acquire the undivided share of the joint property (Note: do not mix up with the joint property included in the composition of the residential estate). The joint property is the undivided real estate owned by several persons - joint owners of undivided shares so that only the substance of the rights is divided.

A joint owner owns the undivided share of the joint property; therefore, the joint owner is entitled to deal with the undivided share, including alienating or pledging the respective undivided share.

However, to deal with the joint property itself, either in its entirety or with respect to a part of it, the consent of all the joint owners shall be obtained. The joint owners can agree on divided use of the joint property proportionally to the amount of the undivided shares by signing a respective agreement.

If one of the co-owners causes harm to other co-owners, maliciously using his rights or not fulfilling his duties as a good and caring owner, the majority of the co-owners may demand the alienation of the share of such a co-owner. The share of a co-owner is subject to alienation to other co-owners, transferring it to one or several co-owners with the obligation to reimburse the cost of the share in money, or the share is alienated by selling at a closed auction among the other co-owners. If none of the co-owners is willing to acquire the alienated share or the court has reasonable doubts about the expediency of such a method of alienation, the court decides to sell this share at public auction.

C. Divided estate

The general principle provided by Latvian law is that buildings and structures located on the land plot are part of the land plot and therefore owned by the landowner, and only in exceptional cases, buildings and structures as separate building property could be owned by another person, who is not the owner of the land plot - the so-called divided estate.

In case of the divided estate, namely, if the building (structure) is located on the land plot, which does not belong to the owner of the building (structure), but is owned by another person, the status of such building (structure) and therefore the legal consequences, which depending on the status of the building (structure) may vary, should be evaluated.

There are two forms of divided estates, depending on the status of the building (structure) on the land plot:

First form. Compulsory divided estate

Generally, a building (structure) built during the Soviet time and until September 1, 1992, when the Civil Law of the Republic of Latvia entered into force.

The divided property was formed when the ownership rights of the land plot under the building (structure) were renewed to the previous owners or their heirs during the land reform, or the land belonging to the state or local government or building (structure) was acquired by privatizing the state or municipal undertakings or separate real estate objects.

The owner of the building (structure) is entitled to use the part of the land plot functionally related to the building on the grounds of legal right of use, which was introduced on 1 January 2023 to replace the compulsory lease. The legal right of use is viewed as an easement in-rem on land. In case of divided estate, the parties should agree on the size of the used area of the land and on the amount of payment for use, and, if the parties cannot agree on the mentioned, the dispute shall be resolved by the court. The building owner is obliged to pay the landowner a fee of 4% of the cadastral value of the land per year, but not less than 50 EUR per year.

Since 1 January 2023 a special legal mechanism can be applied to end the forced shared ownership between the apartment owners and the land owner of an apartment building, through a statutory right of redemption granted to the community of apartment owners over the land under the apartment building. This process is initiated by the community of apartment owners' decision and is carried out without the land owner's consent.

Second form. Voluntarily established divided estate.

Buildings built after September 1, 1992, when the Civil Law of the Republic of Latvia entered into force, based on a specific long term (at least 10 years) lease agreement providing the rights to the lessee to build buildings on the leased land plot as separate real estate objects. After 1 January 2017 it is no longer possible to establish a new voluntary divided ownership relationship.

The separate ownership of the building (structure) is established only during the validity of the lease agreement.

Amendments to the Civil Law entered into force on 1 January 2017, by introducing a new institute of build-up rights, which henceforward replaces the institute of specific long-term lease for the voluntary established divided estate.

The build-up rights are rights in-rem, established based on the agreement entitling, during the validity of such rights, to build and use non-residential buildings or engineering structures on the land plot owned by another person. The building (structure) built based on the build-up rights is an integral part of the build-up rights. It is not permitted to build residential buildings based on the build-up rights.

The validity of the build-up rights cannot be less than 10 years, and the build-up rights shall be registered with the Land Registry.

The build-up rights can be alienated and encumbered with rights in-rem, unless explicitly prohibited in the agreement on granting of the build-up rights.

After expiry of the build-up rights, the building (structure) built based on the build-up rights becomes an integral part of the land plot, i.e., becomes the property of the land plot owner. The owner of the land plot acquires the building (structure) without remuneration, unless such remuneration has been provided in the agreement on granting of the build-up rights. In the agreement on granting of the build-up rights the parties may provide that, prior to the expiry of the build-up rights, the holder of the build-up rights shall vacate the land plot from the constructed buildings (structures).

D. Restrictions for acquisition of land in Latvia

There are certain provisions and legal restrictions for acquisition of real estate in Latvia; however, these restrictions are imposed only regarding ownership of the land, there are no restrictions regarding ownership of other types of real estate such as buildings, structures, apartments, business premises etc.

Restrictions for acquisition of land vary depending on whether the land is located in the city or in rural areas.

In cities land may be acquired by:

- a the citizens of Latvia and any European Union (EU) member state;
- b the State and local government, and state and municipal companies;
- c a capital company (a limited liability company or a joint stock company) registered in Latvia or any EU member state, if more than a half of the share capital of the company belongs to:
 - 1) the citizens of Latvia and EU member state; or
 - 2) the State and local government, and state and municipal companies; or
 - 3) private individuals or legal entities from the countries, which have concluded an agreement with the Republic of Latvia for the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment and such agreement has been approved by the Parliament of Latvia prior to 31 December 1996 (such countries are: the United States of America, Austria, Belgium, Luxemburg, Czech Republic, Denmark, France, Greece, Estonia, Israel, South Korea, United Kingdom, Lithuania, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Finland, Spain, Switzerland, Uzbekistan, Germany, Vietnam, Sweden); or
 - 4) private individuals or legal entities from the countries, which have concluded an agreement with the Republic of Latvia for the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment after 31 December 1996, and the respective concluded agreement prescribes the rights of the private individuals and legal entities from Latvia to acquire land in the respective country (countries, which have concluded agreements for the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment after 31 December 1996 are - Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Bulgaria, Egypt, Georgia, Croatia, India, Iceland, Canada, Kazakhstan, China, Kirgizstan, Kuwait, Moldova, Rumania, Singapore, Slovakia, Turkey, Ukraine, Hungary, but regarding these countries the exact provisions of the agreements should be reviewed);

- d a public joint stock company registered in Latvia or any EU member state, if its shares are quoted in stock exchange;
- e religious organizations, which were registered in Latvia before 21 July 1940;
- f the state or municipal institutions of higher education.

Other private individuals and companies that do not correspond to the aforementioned conditions may acquire the land in Latvia with the permission from the local government; however, it is also prohibited for such private individuals and companies to acquire the following types of land:

- land in the border zone;
- land in the protection zone of coastal dunes of the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Riga and land in the protection zones of public bodies of water and water courses, except if the build-up is allowed on the land in accordance with the spatial plan of the city;

- agricultural and forest land in accordance with the spatial plan of the city.

In rural areas land may be acquired by:

- a the citizens of Latvia, citizens of the EU member states or European Economic Area (EEA) states or citizens of Member States of the Swiss Confederation and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development;
- b the Republic of Latvia or derived public persons (such as municipal or other public person established based on law);
- c a capital company (a limited liability company or a joint stock company) registered in Latvia, EU, EEA country or in the Swiss Confederation or in a Member State of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, if the respective company has been registered in Latvia as a taxpayer and if all the shareholders of the company are:
 - 1) citizens of Latvia, citizens of the EU member states or EEA country, or citizens of Member States of the Swiss Confederation and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development; or
 - 2) the Republic of Latvia or derived public persons; or
 - 3) private individuals or legal entities from the countries, which have concluded an agreement with the Republic of Latvia for the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment and such agreement has been approved by the Parliament of Latvia prior to 31 December 1996; or

- 4) private individuals or legal entities from the countries, which have concluded an agreement with the Republic of Latvia for the Encouragement and Reciprocal Protection of Investment after 31 December 1996, and the respective concluded agreement prescribes the rights of the private individuals and legal entities from Latvia to acquire land in the respective country;
- d legal subjects registered in Latvia, EU, EEA country or in the Swiss Confederation or in a Member State of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, if the respective legal subject has been registered in Latvia as a taxpayer or as a commercial activity performer and if the legal subject is:
 - 1) an individual merchant owned by a citizen of Latvia, citizen of the EU member state or EEA country, or citizen of Member States of the Swiss Confederation and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development;
 - 2) an individual undertaking registered by a citizen of Latvia, citizen of the EU member state or EEA country, or citizen of Member States of the Swiss Confederation and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development;

- 3) a co-operative society, if all the members of the society are legal subjects mentioned in clause 1), 2), 3) or sub-clause a), b), d) of clause 4);
- 4) other legal subject registered in the EU member state, EEA country or in the Swiss Confederation or in a Member State of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, which can be compared to the above individual merchant, individual undertaking, or co-operative society;
- 5) religious organizations registered in Latvia; the activity whereof is at least 3 years;
- 6) associations and foundations registered in Latvia, the activity whereof is at least 3 years, and the purpose of activity whereof is related to the environmental protection, production of agricultural cultivated plants or products, or hunting management or maintenance, if the land is acquired to ensure the mentioned purpose of activity.

Other private individuals and companies that do not correspond to the abovementioned conditions may acquire the land in Latvia with the permission from the local government; however, it is also prohibited for such private individuals and companies to acquire the following types of land:

- land in the border zone;
- land in nature reserves and other protected nature areas in zones of nature reserves;
- land in the protection zone of coastal dunes of the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Riga;

- land in the protection zones of public bodies of water and water courses;
- agricultural and forest land;
- land in the mineral deposits of national significance.

If, due to the changes, the status of the legal subject does not correspond to the aforementioned conditions, in order to keep the land in the cities or rural areas, the permission from the local government should be received within a period of one month, and if the permission is not granted the land should be alienated within a period of two years.

If a private individual or a company, which has acquired land in the cities or rural areas with the permission of the local government, does not use the land for the prescribed purpose the land should also be alienated within a period of two years

E. Agricultural land

The additional limitations are set on the acquisition of agricultural land in rural areas of Latvia. Legal entities are entitled to acquire 5 ha of agricultural land in aggregate without additional limitations, but private individuals are entitled to acquire 10 ha of agricultural land in aggregate without additional limitations.

In order to acquire more agricultural land, private individuals and legal entities should confirm that the acquired land will be used for agricultural activities, and the respective private individuals and legal entities shall comply with the specific criteria prescribed by law, including clear information on the true beneficiaries and statement that total amount of tax debts of which in Latvia or in the state where these persons are registered does not exceed EUR 150. In addition, the citizens of the European Union Member States, the Member States of the European Economic Area or citizens of Member States of the Swiss Confederation and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, if they wish to acquire the agricultural land as private individuals, or if they are sole shareholders or shareholders jointly representing more than a half of the share capital of the company intending to acquire the agricultural land, or persons entitled to represent the respective company, shall receive a registration certificate of the Union citizen and the document certifying knowledge of the official language (Latvian) at least at B level grade 2 (namely, the person is able to communicate on everyday subjects and professional issues, to clearly phrase and justify his or her opinion, reads and understands texts of different content, is able to write the documents necessary for work (for example, statements, summaries, minutes, reports, deeds), as well as expanded texts regarding everyday life and professional topics, comprehends, and understands naturally paced spoken texts on different topics). However, with the judgment in case No C-206/19 dated on 11 June 2020, the Court of Justice of the European Union has recognized that the language knowledge requirement is discriminatory and cannot be applied to the citizens of the European Union Member States. Although the law has not been changed, the court's finding is respected in practice.

If the language criteria shall be applied upon the request of the local government, the person shall make a presentation in Latvian explaining the intended usage of the land in agricultural activity. If the agricultural land is to be acquired by a legal entity - the usage of the land in agricultural activity shall be presented by the individual - the sole shareholder or individual shareholder jointly representing more than one half of the share capital of the company (in case of beneficiaries - presentation shall be made by those beneficiaries).

For a person, who meets the criteria, to be able to acquire agricultural land, he or she shall first submit an application to the local government of the territory in which the relevant land is located, and after examination of the application and offering to exercise the rights of first refusal to the registered lessee, if any, of the agricultural land and to the Land Fund of Latvia, the commission of the local government shall decide on giving its consent or refusal to acquisition of the agricultural land.

In addition, one private individual or legal entity can acquire up to 2,000 ha of agricultural land. The local government has the right to determine the maximum area of agricultural land one private individual or legal entity can possess within their administrative area, but no more than 2,000 ha. Related parties can acquire up to 4,000 ha of agricultural land.

V. Real estate registries

There are two registries related to real estate in Latvia: The Land Registry and the National Real Estate Cadastre Information System (Cadastral Registry).

The Land Registry is the main real estate registry and is kept by the respective Regional Court Land Registry Offices, each of them operating within a particular administrative territory. All rights (including ownership rights, all kinds of legal encumbrances, mortgages, restrictions, etc.) regarding real estate shall be registered with the Land Registry.

Ownership rights of real estate shall be registered with the Land Registry and only a person, whose ownership rights have been registered with the Land Registry, shall be considered the owner of real estate, except when the ownership rights of the real estate are established by the law.

Entries registered with the Land Registry have public credibility. Thus, not only the owner of the real estate is guaranteed credibility of its title registration, but also every third party is provided with valid information on the current status of the real estate. However, this does not mean that transfer of title to real estate or the title itself cannot be challenged (for example, the seller has no rights to sell the respective real estate, or any third party's rights of first refusal have been violated and thus this person may possibly exercise his or her redemption rights).

The Cadastral Registry is kept by the State Land Service. The cadastral value (determined mainly for the real estate tax and Land Registry state duty purposes), detailed information on buildings and structures (area, number of premises, etc.) as well as detailed information on every real estate object, including graphical information and technical encumbrances, are held in this register.

However, not all encumbrances prescribed by law are actually registered in the registers, for example, protection zones and consequential restrictions and limitations are set by law, notwithstanding whether they are registered with the Land Registry and/or Cadastral Registry, therefore the actual situation on site shall be considered prior to the acquisition of the real estate.

In practice, frequently the information in the Cadastral Registry differs from the information in the Land Registry.

The law also specifies buildings and structures, which are not registered in the Land Registry as separate and independent objects of property, for example - fences, small buildings, except for garages, linear engineering structures, except for transport structures, engineering structures the area of which is less than 50 square metres or height is less than 10 metres. But some transport structures, such buildings and structures are registered in the Cadastral Registry.

Therefore, to obtain more detailed information on the real estate, the information in both registries - the Land Registry and the Cadastral Registry should be reviewed and considered prior to the acquisition of the real estate.

VI. Agreement and re-registration of the title with the Land Registry

Any transfer of the title of the real estate should be registered with the Land Registry. Agreement on alienating the real estate should be prepared in writing and signed by both parties personally. It should be also noted that an oral agreement is binding to the parties, and each party is entitled to claim from the other party to express the oral agreement in a written form.

It is not required, but signatures of the contracting parties on the agreement could be certified by a notary public, as well as an agreement could be concluded in the form of notary deed.

Agreement on alienation of real estate is binding upon the parties from the moment of its conclusion, but for any third party, only a person, whose ownership rights have been registered with the Land Registry, shall be considered as the owner of real estate.

The title (ownership) is transferred to the buyer from the moment of re-registration of the title with the Land Registry (i.e., a Land Registry judge has adopted a decision on registration of the buyer's title). This rule would be always applicable in relation to reliance of third parties on the owner of real estate; however, the contracting parties may agree otherwise on the moment of transfer of title.

To re-register the title with the Land Registry, the registration request to the Land Registry on the transfer of the title should be personally signed before a notary public chosen by the contracting parties. This can be done in person at a notary's place of practice or remotely, using video conferencing mode and signing necessary documents electronically with a secure digital signature with a time stamp.

The notary verifies the identity of both parties, and in case of legal entity also the rights to represent the legal entity. The persons signing the registration request need to provide proof of the identity - passport or ID card for private individuals and also a representative of the legal entity. If the contractual party is a legal entity not registered in Latvia an excerpt from the company register certifying registration of the company and the representation rights of the representative should be provided. Depending on the registration country of the legal entity, the excerpt from the company register should be certified by a notary public or by an authority of the company register of the respective country (for the EU or the EEA countries, or the Swiss Confederation or a Member State of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development), or the excerpt should be legalized in accordance with the international regulatory enactments. The excerpt from the company register should also be translated in Latvian and translation should be certified by a notary public.

A registration request for the re-registration of the title with the Land Registry should be submitted with the respective district (city) court in the territory of operation of which real estate is located. The following documents should be enclosed with the registration request:

- an agreement on alienation of the real estate;
- a refusal to exercise the rights of first refusal (except the refusal of the joint owner or owner of divided property)
(Please see Section IX. (A));
- a consent from third parties, if such is required in the particular situation, for example, a consent from the bank in case of a mortgage, or a consent from the spouse of the seller, if the real estate is the co-property of spouses;
- permission from the local government to acquire the land in Latvia, if such is required by the law (please see Section V. (D));
- documents certifying representation rights of the parties;
- receipts for the payment of the state and stamp duties.

VII. CLOSING COSTS/ ADJUSTMENTS

Notary fees are determined by secondary legislation, i.e., the Regulations of the Cabinet of Ministers.

For the re-registration of the title with the Land Registry, a state duty and a stamp duty should be paid prior to the submission of the registration request with the respective district (city) court.

The amount of the Land Registry state duty depends on the person in whose favor the property rights to the real estate are secured - the rate applicable to the state duty depends on the cadastral value of the real estate or the transaction amount, whichever is higher. The state duty for the consolidation of property rights in the Land Registry for each real estate is set at the following amount (but no more than 50,000 euros):

- 1.5% of the value of the real estate (euro), if the property rights are acquired by a private individuals on the basis of a contract or a court decision to approve the statement of auction, or on the basis of a court decision on registering ownership rights to the real estate to a bidder, co-owner, or creditor;

2% of the value of the real estate (euro), if the property rights are acquired by a legal entities on the basis of a contract or a court decision to approve the statement of auction, or on the basis of a court decision on registering ownership rights to the real estate to a bidder, co-owner, or creditor;

- 3% of the value of the real estate (euro), if the property rights are acquired on the basis of a gift agreement;

- 1% of the amount of investment of real estate that be invested in the share capital of the capital company (euro), if real estate is invested in the share capital of the capital company.

The ratio of 1.5 is applied to the state duty, if more than 6 months have passed, starting from the day of signing the document that confirms the rights to be registered.

Costs for the re-registration of the title with the Land Registry, including notary fees, are usually covered by the buyer, or equally divided between both the seller and the buyer, however, the seller usually bears the costs of deleting of the existing mortgage on the real estate, if any.

The seller should also pay the real estate tax for the entire year of the transaction, and no ownership will be transferred until the real estate tax is paid.

VIII. OTHER INFORMATION

A. Rights of first refusal

The rights of first refusal are priority rights to purchase a real estate if the owner sells the real estate.

1) Joint owners' rights of first refusal

If any of the joint owners of the real estate alienates its undivided share (please see Section V. (B)) to a person, who is not a joint owner, then the other joint owner(s) shall have the rights of first refusal. A joint owner is entitled to express the will to exercise its rights of first refusal within a 2 (two)-month period as from the receipt of the purchase agreement. But, if by the fault of the seller, the joint owner is not able to exercise the rights of first refusal, such joint owner will have the redemption rights, namely, within a period of 1 (one) year as from the registration of the acquirer's title to the real estate with the Land Registry, the joint owner will be entitled to claim for acquisition of the real estate, by taking precedence over the acquirer and by assumption of the rights of the acquirer.

2) Rights of first refusal in case of divided property

In case of divided property (please see Section V. (C)), the owner of the land and the owner of building (structure) have mutual rights of first refusal and redemption rights, if the respective land or building estate is alienated. The rights of first refusal shall not apply if the building (structure) is built based on the build-up rights.

3) Other rights of first refusal

Rights of first refusal can be established also by the agreement or will.

The law also provides for other specific cases when third parties have the rights of first refusal or redemption rights to real estate, for example, if the real estate is alienated in the territory of a civil aviation aerodrome of the state significance (also the territory necessary for further development thereof) and the civil aviation aerodrome is owned by a capital company where the state has a decisive influence - the state has the rights of first refusal, but if the civil aviation aerodrome is owned by a capital company, where the local government has a decisive influence - the respective local government has the rights of first refusal, or rights of first refusal to the real estate in the territory of the port may be exercised by the local government, represented by the port authority, but the rights of first refusal to the real estate in the territory of the port of Riga shall be exercised by the port authority of Riga as a derived public person and in the territory of the port of Ventspils shall be exercised by the port authority of Ventspils as a derived public person.

Up until 1 January 2023, when new Municipality law entered into force, local governments had rights of first refusal in case of alienation of the real estate, if it was necessary for performance of local government functions. The procedure necessary to gain the local government's decision on its first refusal rights hindered the transaction. Now these rights are completely discarded, and in case of a necessity a local government may at any time initiate a process in accordance with the Law on the Alienation of Immovable Property Necessary for Public Needs

B. Permitted use of the real estate (zoning) and environmental protection regulations

Prior to the acquisition of real estate, the permitted use of the real estate (zoning) and possible restrictions for the usage, including construction, of the real property should be additionally reviewed in the local government spatial plan and Territory Usage and Build up Regulations.

Prior to the acquisition of real estate, it should also be reviewed whether the territory of the real estate is not registered with the Register of Polluted and Potentially Polluted Areas. However, it should be noted that, even if the territory of the real estate has not been registered as polluted or potentially polluted, depending on the historical usage of the respective real estate there is a risk that historical pollution may appear.

IX. ANNUAL COSTS FOR PROPERTY OWNERSHIP

A. Property Insurance

Property Insurance is not mandatory, but very common. When property is purchased through loans by banks or other financial institutions, usually the lender requires the buyer real property insurance to secure a mortgage.

B. Real Estate Tax

Real estate tax is levied on a property's assessed value. Real estate tax is payable for land and buildings, and certain infrastructure. It is an annual tax but can be paid in four installments in March, May, August, and November. The local municipalities are free to set tax rates on real estate in their area from 0.2% to 3% of its cadastral value, otherwise tax rates defined by state apply. A tax rate exceeding 1.5% of cadastral value may be charged only if the real estate is improperly maintained.

An increased real estate tax rate of 3% may be applied if the maximum allowed duration of construction works is exceeded, i.e. 5 years or 8 years of construction works period, depending on the type of construction.

C. Maintenance Costs

An apartment owner is obliged, according to the existing joint property share included in his or her residential property and a respective decision of the community of apartment owners, cover the expenditures for the performance of the mandatory administration activities of the residential house, remuneration to the administrator, expenditures for the performance of other administration activities of the residential house which ensure improvement and development of the residential house, as well as monetary payments into the communities of apartment owners savings fund.

D. Payments for Legal Rights of Use

If the real estate is a divided estate (please see Section C. Divided estate, in paragraph IV), owner of the building (structure) is obliged to make compulsory payments for use of the part of the land plot functionally related to the building to the landowner. The amount of such fee is agreed between the parties, but if no agreement is reached, it is 4% of the cadastral value of the land per year, but not less than 50 EUR per year. An agreement between the owner of the building (structure) and the land for a different fee is not binding to the next owner of the divided estate.
