2012 Safe Toys Buyer's Guide

Study Reveals "10 Most Dangerous Toys of All Time"

Play beads that turn into a date-rape drug when swallowed? Popular dolls with mechanical jaws that munch kid fingers? Inflatable baby boats that suddenly release their infant passengers to sink under water?

Unbelievably these are not storylines from a bad horror movie, but real toys that were sold to millions of unsuspecting Americans, as revealed by the American Association for Justice in the just-released list of The 10 Most Dangerous Toys of All Time.

Toys are supposed to bring joy and happiness to children, especially during the holidays. And most do so safely. But for the 200,000-plus kids injured on average each year and the 270 killed since 1998, happiness became a nightmare. Whether giving or receiving, You Should Know more about safe toys this holiday season. Go here.

Play Beads Become Date-Rape Drug
Aqua Dots were a hit toy until kids started becoming violently ill after swallowing the beads. Turns out the coating metabolized into GHB – the date-rape drug – when sprinkled with water. Learn more.

BY THE NUMBERS /

262,300 Injuries

There were 262,300 serious toy-related injuries in 2011 and 13 deaths. Asphyxiation (often from choking on toy parts, small balls or balloons) was the leading cause of death, while non-motorized scooters caused the most injuries.

1.25 Inches

If a toy or part of a toy can pass through a toilet paper tube – approximately 1.25 inches in diameter – don't buy it for a child under age 3, or any child who still puts objects in his/her mouth.
