

CHRO Proposes New Equal Employment Opportunity Plan Regulations & Hearing

By Daniel Schwartz on January 25th, 2012

The Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (CHRO) has released proposed new regulations that would require state agencies and the like to create an Equal Employment Opportunity Plan.

These regulations would not apply to private employers so many of you can dispense with the worrying.

The proposed regulations will replace the current ones. The CHRO hasn't amended the regulations in quite some time and according to one CHRO insider, it seemed to be a good time to look at them afresh. The changes are relatively modest, but for those that study these types of things, there are updates to definitions such as "good faith efforts" that should be reviewed.

You can download the full proposal here.

A public hearing on the proposal is set for February 8, 2012 at 10 a.m. The hearing will be held in Room 1A of the Legislative Office Building, 300 Capitol Avenue, Hartford, CT 06106.

If you're interested in commenting on the proposal, you can do so in writing (either snail mail or e-mail) to: James O'Neill, Legislative Liaison, Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities, 25 Sigourney Street, Hartford, Connecticut 06106 or james.j.oneill@ct.gov.

This blog/web site is made available by the host/publisher for educational purposes only as well as to give you general information and a general understanding of the law. It is not intended to provide specific legal advice to your individual circumstances or legal questions. You acknowledge that neither your reading of, nor posting on, this blog site establishes an attorney-client relationship between you and the blog/web site host or the law firm, or any of the attorneys with whom, the host is affiliated. This blog/web site should not be used as a substitute for seeking competent legal advice from a licensed professional attorney in your state. Readers of this information should not act upon any information contained on this website without seeking professional counsel. The transmission of confidential information via Internet email is highly discouraged. Per a June 11, 2007 opinion of Connecticut's Statewide Grievance Committee, legal blogs/websites, such as this one, may be deemed an "advertisement" under applicable rules and regulations of Connecticut, and/or the rules and regulations of other jurisdictions.