

Ozzy Osbourne's Oldest Son Seeks Bankruptcy Protection

by Levitt & Slafkes, P.C. on November 4, 2013

Louis Osbourne, Ozzy Osbourne's oldest son, has filed for bankruptcy protection. It is believed that he got into financial trouble after investing in the Irish real property market. Osbourne, who recently started his own record label All Night Records, filed jointly with his wife Louise. They currently live in Harborne in Birmingham.

Louis Osbourne is the son of Thelma Riley, who was married to Ozzy for almost 10 years. Ozzy is currently married to Sharon and they are reportedly worth more than £100 million, with houses in Beverly Hills and Buckinghamshire. Ozzy still tours with his band, Black Sabbath, who recently finished the Latin American leg of a world tour and will begin the European leg soon. Sharon is a judge on the reality television show X Factor.

If you have made some bad investments that have caused your financial difficulties, filing a Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 case may be the solution to your troubles. Bankruptcy allows a debtor to obtain a fresh financial start. To learn more, contact Levitt & Slafkes to schedule a consultation.

If you are interested in learning more about Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 bankruptcy cases, contact Levitt & Slafkes, P.C. We are experienced in handling a variety of bankruptcy issues. Our offices are conveniently located in South Orange, New Jersey. Please call us at 973-323-2953 or online to schedule your free initial consultation today.

<http://www.lsbankruptcylaw.net/ozzy-osbournes-oldest-son-seeks-bankruptcy-protection/>