We highlight two events this week in our continuing coverage of high tech meetings and conferences in the Silicon Valley and San Francisco areas.

First, the Berkeley Entrepreneurs Forum presents Technology Entrepreneurship on the Global Stage: The 7th Annual Intel Global Challenge. This event takes place November 10, 2011 from 5:30 pm to 8:30 pm at Haas School of Business – UC Berkeley.

Prior to the event, 28 teams from 20 countries compete in private judging sessions, and the top eight teams present their business idea to the public at the event. It's a global business competition focused on technology, where teams present their business and technology startups focused on ideas that will impact the world. $100,000 in prizes will be awarded.

Second, on Wednesday November 16, Digital Music SF, in association with Billboard's Future Sound Conference, presents a digital music industry networking evening from 7-9 pm. It takes place at the Eve Lounge in San Francisco, Howard Street @ 2nd. This is a networking event for independent labels, artists, producers, industry executives and others. Billboard Future Sound is also sponsoring a full conference.
