

Most medical malpractice victims never recover a dime because they do not know they are victims of medical negligence. Our medical negligence attorneys in Michigan want to educate individuals on what is medical malpractice.

In fact, it is estimated that 225,000 deaths result from medical malpractice, but nearly two percent of people who have suffered an injury from malpractice ever file a claim.

Definition of Medical Malpractice

Medical malpractice, also known as medical negligence, is the term used to describe a wrong committed by a doctor or other medical professional who caused the bodily harm. Medical malpractice is much more than the hospital, physician or other health care provider making a simple mistake. Medical malpractice occurs when a health care provider improperly treats a patient or performs a treatment in a negligent manner. Many times, a doctor or hospital fails to use appropriate treatment methods or neglects the patient. The results of this inadequate and inappropriate care can cause significant permanent injuries and even wrongful death.

Common Medical Malpractice

How do you know if you have been a victim? Common medical malpractice includes:

- Misdiagnosis
- Failure to identify the cause of illness in time
- Surgical errors
- Failure to follow up with the patient to see how they are doing
- Anesthesia errors
- Wrong prescription

Medical Malpractice Lawsuits

Medical malpractice claims are very difficult and take numerous years to settle. In order to make a claim from an act of medical negligence, the medical negligence attorney has to prove that negligence had taken place, and the injury suffered due to the negligence could have been avoided.

Contact A Michigan Negligence Attorney in Michigan

Our experienced negligence attorneys understand what is medical malpractice, handling cases for victims of malpractice against doctors, surgeons, hospitals, clinics, and nurses. Individuals injured by a medical malpractice in Michigan, should contact a medical negligence attorney immediately to discuss your case. Call our office now at (800) 606-1717 to speak with one of our experienced Michigan negligence attorneys today.