

Why Dallas Court Reporters Provide Realtime Services for Attorneys

Litigation Support is a highly competitive industry, and Dallas court reporters who want to retain their existing clients - and develop new ones - really need to keep up with technology and advanced litigation services. Among the most useful tools available to attorneys these days are realtime court reporting services. Quickly becoming the standard, realtime court reporting is the process where a court reporters transcript is converted into text form as it is being typed. The court reporter's stenotype machine is directly connected to a computer, which allows for a nearly instantaneous translation from spoken testimony or depositions to an organized and searchable text document on the attorney's laptop computer or other mobile device.

Why Realtime?

Lawyers who use realtime court reporting realize a number of benefits. An attorney can review testimony and highlight sections for further scrutiny without interrupting the legal proceedings. They can also search for specific words or phrases in multiple documents simultaneously and review transcripts from the court reporter to locate previous or conflicting testimony. An attorney can utilize the realtime services to quickly create transcript and annotation reports and email them to co-counsel or other colleagues for immediate review. A few of the other benefits include:

- Realtime access to proceedings, as well as rough drafts
- Immediate internet streaming of legal proceedings
- Enhanced ability to search and annotate text as it happens.
- Easy accessibility for the hearing-impaired
- The ability to add and edit notes during depositions

With all of the different court reporters and litigation services providers in Dallas, the court reporter that can provide advanced technology to their client and save them time, money, and increase their efficiency will always be in demand. Realtime court reporting services are a great way to take all three areas to entirely new heights.

888.893.3767
WWW.DEPOTEXAS.COM