Our Michigan nursing home abuse lawyers represent nursing home residents and their families in abuse and neglect cases. These lawsuits arise from a number of different types of neglect and abuse, including bedsores, fall injuries, medication errors, choking injuries, dehydration, and wandering claims. In cases involving death, we file a wrongful death lawsuit on behalf of the family.

The U.S. Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) issued a report ranking nursing homes throughout the United States. These rankings were completed in June 2011 and were based upon three years of health violations and site visits. The lowest ranking nursing homes in Michigan are as follows:

Legal Rights If Neglected or Abused in a Michigan Nursing Home

If you or a loved one suffered injuries due to nursing home neglect or nursing home abuse at a Michigan nursing home, you do have the legal right to file a civil lawsuit against the facility. In this type of lawsuit, the injured resident and the family of the resident can seek compensation for the injuries and medical care and treatment related to the injury. If the patient dies due to neglect, the family can seek damages under the Michigan Wrongful Death Act.
