

Covid-19 coronavirus: Global merger review update

Last updated 12/11/20

Merger review processes are being impacted worldwide as merger control authorities adapt to take account of the consequences of Covid-19. While critical transactions are likely to be reviewed, as far as possible, in accordance with normal practice, many cases may face changes in approach and practice (eg extensions of timelines in certain circumstances). The table below reflects our understanding of the current effects on the merger review process in numerous jurisdictions around the world. It will be updated regularly to track the situation as it evolves. We have applied a red-amber-green 'traffic light' colour-coding background to each jurisdiction to indicate the severity and extent of changes to usual procedures, where red indicates the most significant disruption to or suspension of merger control processes, amber indicates some disruption and changes to normal practice and green indicates, broadly, business as usual.

For more information on the potential impact of Covid-19 on the merger control aspects of your transaction, please speak to your usual A&O antitrust contact.

The agency has not relaxed its standards or expectations when conducting merger reviews, and will not change its willingness to fully vet the firm alleging a failing firm defence. The FTC has also released a blog post to this effect. FTC Director Ian Conner has confirmed that the agency will not accept arguments that fall short of the defence (eg that the target is a weakened competitor). The FTC is also giving increased scrutiny to the financial state of potential divestiture buyers due to concerns with financing and viability that directly result from the Covid-19 crisis. – A number of recent statements, initially from members of Congress but now endorsed by FTC Commissioner Rohit Chopra, have addressed the possibility of a merger moratorium under which no mergers above a certain size would be allowed to proceed. At this point, we believe this moratorium is unlikely to proceed, but we continue to monitor the situation. – Due to circumstances surrounding the Covid-19 pandemic, the waiting period for Pfizer and Mylan's merger notification was further extended by the parties and FTC on 28 April 2020. – FTC Commissioner Wilson has urged the FTC to publish guidance on the agency's approach to evaluating efficiencies claims by merging parties that sets a "gold-standard" analytical approach to resolve 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – On "Failing" Firms – and Miraculous Recoveries, FTC (27/05/20) – Pfizer, Mylan, FTC extended waiting period following certification because of Covid-19, reported by Mlex (12/06/20) – FTC Commissioner Wilson calls for guidance on evaluation of efficiencies, reported by PaRR (24/06/20) – Healthcare deal antitrust reviews expected to take longer at US FTC due to Covid-19, senior official says, reported by Mlex (01/07/20) – US FTC is receptive to failing firm defence during Covid-19, but won't stop fully vetting, senior official says, reported by Mlex (01/07/20) – AMC Allowed to Buy Back Theaters From Failing Rival, reported by Law360 (31/08/20)

Brazil Administrative Council for Economic Defense (CADE)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – There are no current changes to the normal merger control process in Brazil. CADE’s President reported that there has been no decrease in the agency’s productivity during the pandemic. CADE is continuing to run its proceedings and issue decisions, opinions, and technical notes. There are no changes in legal deadlines relating to merger reviews, including deadlines for gun-jumping proceedings. CADE has requested contact by telephone or videoconference to avoid in-person meetings. – However, local counsel have advised that the risk of delay in certain cases cannot be ruled out, especially cases where information gathering and evidence collection is dependent on third parties. – CADE deputy superintendents are now able to ask companies to amend merger notifications and to determine whether deals filed on the fast track should instead be reviewed under full-form procedures. They also have the power to postpone negotiation of settlement agreements and preliminary probe decisions. Ordinarily, only the Superintendent was authorised to take such actions. – CADE’s commissioner Paula Azevedo has urged companies to reach out to the agency if they require “exceptionally fast” approval for a transaction due to circumstances brought about by the pandemic. Also, during the pandemic, CADE may grant a “precarious authorization” request for advance payment on a merger. However, Azevedo cautions that even under exceptional situations, gun-jumping is not justified. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Notice, in Portuguese, CADE (25/03/20) – CADE deputy superintendents given more power to evaluate merger, conduct cases, reported by Mlex (30/03/20) – Projeto de Lei n° 1179, de 2020, in Portuguese – Traditional merger review preserved in Brazil during pandemic, CADE’s top investigator says, reported by Mlex (18/05/20) – CADE productivity in merger reviews not reduced by pandemic in first five months of 2020, agency president says, reported by Mlex (01/06/20) – CADE president expects mergers in Brazil to pick up in 2021, reported by PaRR (10/06/20) – Companies should notify CADE of deals regardless of bill exempting them from prior approval, agency councilor says, reported by Mlex (10/06/20) – CADE commissioner urges companies to reach out to agency amid pandemic, reported by PaRR (23/06/20)

This suspension would not preclude CADE from subsequently reviewing or investigating anti-competitive conduct pertaining to mergers unrelated to combating or mitigating the pandemic within one year of closing. However, CADE’s officials are encouraging parties to notify their deals in any event. – In terms of substantive assessment, CADE officials have repeatedly stated that the authority will not loosen its merger review rules during the crisis. – Failing firm claims by merging parties are expected to rise, although CADE’s President has noted that to date no such claims have been made. CADE may be sensitive to failing firm arguments but will not allow the crisis to be used as an excuse for opportunism. In any event, according to the President the bar to approve a deal on the basis of the defence is very high, meaning such approval is unlikely, although not impossible. – A senior official at CADE has highlighted the suitability of behavioural over structural remedies to address competition concerns during the pandemic as they are more flexible and may be adjusted in accordance with market changes. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Gun-jumping ‘absolutely’ unacceptable to CADE, even during pandemic, councilor Azevedo says, reported by Mlex (23/06/20) – Brazil’s competition authority won’t loosen merger rules during Covid-19 crisis, agency president says, reported by Mlex (29/06/20) – CADE officials expect increase in acquisitions in Brazil due to impacts of Covid-19 crisis, reported by Mlex (02/07/20) – Notice, in Portuguese, CADE (21/07/20); also reported by Mlex and PaRR – Mattos Filho (local counsel) – Tozzini Freire (local counsel) – Lefosse (local counsel)

Parties may also experience challenges in delivering productions and information to the CCB during this period. As such, the CCB encourages merging parties to contact case teams and management in the Mergers Directorate as early as possible on complex matters and throughout the conduct of a review. – The CCB will prioritise certain matters (eg consumer protection issues) to maximise its resources, which may have implications on its ability to address other ongoing matters including merger review. The PCC's investigation had been suspended due to the pandemic and the commitments offered by the parties were considered insufficient. – Through the Bayanihan 2 Act, the Philippines has increased its merger control thresholds for two years as an economic stimulus following the pandemic. This measure drastically reduces the number of transactions subject to mandatory notification in the Philippines by exempting from notification deals with a transaction value of less than PHP50 billion (approx.
